SOUTHERN VICTORY PLAN

The time has come for the SCV to go on the offensive to take back the narrative about our beloved Southland. In July, Paul Gramling was elected Commander-in-Chief of the SCV with the pledge of hitting back at our neo-Marxist enemies. Gramling’s first act was to appoint Donnie Kennedy as Chief of Heritage Operation with Ron Kennedy as Donnie’s first assistant.

As the readers of this newsletter may have noted, we have already been working to build the nucleus of a pro-South information campaign. This effort will now be merged into Gramling’s Southern Victory Campaign. A broad outline of how this campaign will commence and function is available in the current issue of the Confederate Veteran magazine under the title of ‘Make Dixie Great Again’ (Sept./Oct. 2018, p.10, Forward the Colors by Chief of Heritage Operations). If you do not have access to the Confederate Veteran magazine, it can be read in full at: <http://www.kennedytwins.com/MDGA.pdf>

Years of failing to be proactive in promoting a positive message about Southern history has given the neo-Marxist enemy of Dixie the very tools they use to destroy our heritage and ultimately our liberty. Commander Gramling and the Kennedy Twins envision a multi-faceted campaign using radio, YouTube, pod-cast, local (weekly) newspapers, and various social media outlets to promote a favorable view of the South. For the past several months, the Kennedy Twins have been working with Dixie Alliance in Flora, Mississippi building the capacity for creating videos, pod casts, and a new web site: Make Dixie Great Again, www.makedixiegreatagain.org (under construction). Also, we have been collecting the names and contact information for Southern friendly or at least fair media outlets. Many of our friends have already supplied this info, we need more (see article in June Kennedy Twins newsletter ‘We Need Your Help, Not Your Money!’ www.kennedytwins.com/newsletter\_jun18.pdf) Please continue to forward media information to WDKennedy@Reagan.com as we build a data base of good/friendly/fair media outlets.

If we all work together, each person doing his part great or small, we can Make Dixie Great Again! No one person or small group of people can do what an energized dedicated group of patriots can do. This may be the last chance we have to turn the tide against the neo-Marxist assault upon our Christian Southland. Without your support it cannot be done, with your support we WILL Make Dixie Great Again!

Federal Judge Orders Boys and Girls' Must Share Bathrooms, Showers, and Locker Rooms

In a decision that should surprise no one, other than pacified Southerners who still think that we live in a land “under God” with “liberty and justice for all,” U.S. District Judge Marco Hernandez (Oregon) ordered that transgender individuals may select which facilities they desire to use. In other words, if a male “identifies” as a female then he can go into the showers with the “other” girls! The supreme Federal Government has a long history of using America’s children to promote their left-of-center, secular humanist agenda. While Judge Hernandez’s ruling only impacts Oregon, it demonstrates the general trend of America’s secular humanist society. The media and educational institutions support such evil ideas and are in fact the propaganda arm of America’s leftist society—a society that dominates the Bible Belt South and other conservative Americans. Judge Hernandez, an Obama appointee, bluntly declared, “High school students do not have a fundamental privacy right to not share school restrooms, lockers, and showers with transgender students whose biological sex is different than theirs.” <https://www.westernjournal.com/ct/judge-erases-right-to-privacy-rules-schoolgirls-must-share-bathroom-with-males/> accessed 8/8/2018.

U.S. Taxpayers Funding Irrigation Projects for Afghan Heroin Production

Around $2.2 Billion of American taxpayer money is being used in Afghanistan to build irrigation canals that end up watering poppy fields. These Afghanistan poppy fields are the major source for the worldwide illicit heroin and opium. Some claim that Afghanistan heroin is responsible for the majority of heroin overdose worldwide—this of course includes the United States. Those dollars should have been spent on America’s wounded warriors!

This is yet one more example of the unintended consequences of the Yankee Empire’s unending stream of no-win wars. <https://www.breitbart.com/national-security/2018/08/02/sigar-u-s-funding-afghan-canals-heroin-production/> accessed 8/3/2018. Another government study identified fraud in Afghanistan costing taxpayers $15.5 Billion between 2008 to 2017. <https://www.breitbart.com/big-government/2018/07/26/watchdog-finds-15b-u-s-taxpayer-waste-afghanistan-reconstruction/> accessed 7/27/2018.

Make Dixie Great Again

Dixie is more than a song. It is more than antebellum homes, moon light and magnolias, Spanish moss, live oaks and the sweet smell of honeysuckles. It is more than Confederate monuments or battles and leaders in the War for Southern Independence. Dixie is a place in the heart, it is a people held together by a common and tragic history, a place where people still view each other as kith and kin. It is the Bible-Belt and Mardi Gras—two things that could not be more dissimilar! It is music; Dixieland Jazz, the Blues, Country, Rock and Roll and Gospel in its many forms. It is home cooking—country cooking or soul food. It is our common accent that distinguishes us from the rapid-fire verbal cadence of Yankees. The thing that distinguishes us the most from Yankees is that the Southern people have always been a spiritual (not just religious) people as opposed to “those people” who are at heart a materialistic people—a people who see the accumulation of money as the highest virtue in life. Perhaps this is the reason so many Southerners (around 70%) object to the efforts of neo-Marxist in alliance with elected scallywag Southern officials to destroy the last vestiges of our unique Southern heritage.

There was a time when radio stations would play Dixie at the close of their broadcast day; there was a time when football teams proudly wore the title of Rebels; there was a time when everyone in the football stadium would stand when Dixie was played; there was a time when Southern soldiers were allowed to proudly display the Confederate flag—what has happened?

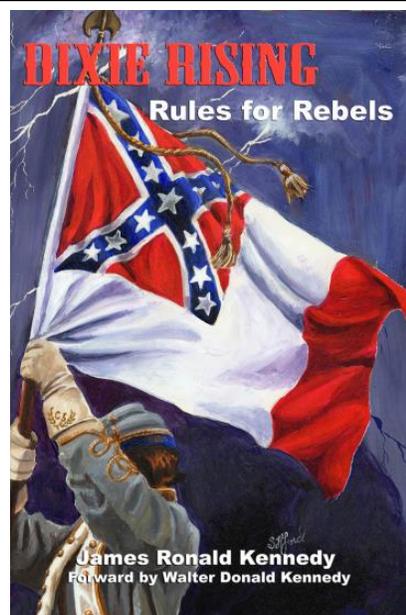

It is our responsibility to reach out to our fellow Southerners—folks who do not attend SCV meetings or re-enactments—and tell them the truth about our South. If we are to save our South we must create a vast reservoir of pro-South Southerners. To find out how—Read Dixie Rising—Rules for Rebels.

The Difference Between Reactionaries and Revolutionaries

Our Colonial forefathers were reactionaries as long as they attempted to convince the British Crown to respect the “rights of Englishmen.” But when it became apparent that the British Empire would not comply with their request they abandoned reactionary thinking and adopted revolutionary thinking. The same is true of our Confederate forefathers. They tried to “compromise” with the forces of an evermore aggressive North. When it became apparent that the North intended to impoverish the South for the benefit of the commercial North our Confederate forefathers abandoned reactionary thinking and adopted revolutionary thinking. We can beg our enemies to respect our heritage or we can adopt methods to force them to do so.

The Federal Government intentionally impoverished the South! Where is this vaunted “liberty and justice for all?”

Is Dixie A Captive Nation?

In a recent article in the Abbeville Institute blog I posed the above question. I listed seven things captive nations have in common. Those pacified Southerners who think we live in a “Republic...with liberty and justice for all” need to consider these four points.

First: The captive nation’s former military forces were defeated by the invading nation’s military.

Second: After an Empire’s successful invasion, it establishes puppet governments to rule the captive nation. In 1932, the Japanese Empire set up its puppet government in Manchuria declaring Puyi the Kangde Emperor of Manchukuo. Establishing puppet governments in conquered territories is a common technique used by empires to lessen the cost of maintaining order and preventing revolts—it also gives the occupation the façade of legitimacy. As in all empires, the puppet master pulls the strings that cause the puppets to dance to their master’s tune.

Third: The people of a captive nation are forbidden or punished for displaying national pride. The flying of the occupied nation’s flag, the veneration of national heroes, and participating in or displaying national traditions, holidays, and other national cultural activities are banned or discouraged.

Fourth: Empires attempt to reduce the captive nation’s native population via genocide or repopulation with “loyal” citizens. The Turks did it against the Armenians; the Soviets did it to the Baltic States; and Japan did it against the native population of Manchuria. The South suffered direct genocide at the hands of federal armies. Yankee General James Lane declared, “We believe in a war of extermination.” Another Yankee officer declared that his orders were not only, “the adoption of all means not only to crush out the rebellion but to punish all persons who live in the rebellious territory.” Indirect genocide resulted from deaths arising from malnutrition that followed in the wake of defeat and the establishment of federal puppet governments.

Fifth: Empires use the technique of divide and rule to maintain its rule over captive nations.

Sixth: The captive nation’s citizens who cling to traditional values are held up for public ridicule by the Empire’s propaganda agents.

Seventh: “Resistance is futile—all will be assimilated.” All empires attempt to convince the captive nation’s rising generations that it is futile to consider rising against the empire.

Thoughts on Non-Violent Revolutions

1. The current politically correct social and political establishment stands opposed to the concepts of constitutional liberty and states' rights as advocated by our Colonial and Confederate ancestors.
2. Our task is to vindicate the cause for which our Confederate ancestors fought.
3. We know our Confederate ancestors were fighting for Freedom, the right of self-government, the right to live under a government based upon their free and unfettered consent—but our opponents use a vast propaganda network consisting of the media, educational institutions, and both political parties to slander the cause of the defeated and occupied South.
4. Polls demonstrate that at least 70% of Southerners have a positive view of the South and do not want to see Confederate monuments destroyed.
5. Confederate monuments have been destroyed or removed under the guidance or passive consent of elected Southern scallywag politicians of both political parties.
6. Revolutions are not initiated by begging politicians to respect the occupied nation's culture and heritage or by filing law suits in the victor-controlled courts.
7. The only thing politicians respect is power in the form of money or votes.
8. Our task is to mobilize the 70% of Southerners and convert them from passive supporters to active supporters of their Southern heritage—a heritage of Freedom.
9. How can we overcome the victor's massive propaganda establishments?
10. To be successful the occupying force's propaganda must be complete—allowing no opposing views. It only takes a very small amount of truth to arouse the people of a captive nation.
11. People who are basically sympathetic to a cause but do not have a leader or vision are sympathetic but also apathetic—"you can't fight city hall." It is the leader's responsibility to energize those who sympathize with us and thereby convert them from apathetic supporters to active supporters.
12. Successful revolutionaries—even those whose ideas we abhor—understood that before you can change society you must first change the attitudes of the masses—Mao called it "warming the waters of revolution." He did it by educating the masses with pro-revolution information. Another successful revolutionary stated that information must precede organization and an energized organization then directs the revolution.
13. Informing and thereby activating the masses is not a one-time shot! It does not have to be overwhelming—a little bit will do—but it must be continuous. It must be tied to current events and point to a solution that will result in a society far better than the politically correct, secular humanist, neo-Marxist one we currently reside in.

Aggressive Abroad and Despotic at Home

James Ronald and Walter Donald Kennedy

Authors of The South Was Right! and Punished With Poverty

- In 1866 General R. E. Lee wrote that if the North used its victory to destroy States' Rights then the United States would become "aggressive abroad and despotic at home."
- In 1870 General Lee declared, "If I had known what those people intended to do with their victory there would have been no surrender at Appomattox."
- Lincoln, his Republican and crony capitalist allies unconstitutionally converted America's original Republic of Sovereign States into a North American and eventually global Yankee Empire.
- President Jefferson Davis noted, "The lust of empire impelled them [Yankees] to wage against their weaker neighbors [the South] a war of subjugation."
- The Yankee Empire's invasion and conquest of the Confederate States of America was its first international conquest—it would not be its last!

"The Kennedy Twin's new book Yankee Empire is The South Was Right! on steroids," Dr. Sandy Mitcham, Historian SCV Heritage Operations.

The Deep State did not begin with Obama—it was made possible by Lincoln's successful war against real States' Rights.

There is a reason for expressions such as "Damn Yankee" and "Yankee Go Home."

Monument Destruction is Nothing Far Worse is Yet to Come

While the “authorities” look on, the neo-Marxist mobs are busy destroying our Confederate monuments. While this is terrible to behold the sad news is that far worse is yet to come! The fact that mobs of left-wing thugs think that it is perfectly safe for them to destroy public artwork given to society by men and women of former generations demonstrates just how degenerated our political system has become. The shame does not belong to the left-wing mob—it belongs to our elected politicians and university officials paid with taxpayer dollars, yet they find it easier to turn a blind eye rather than enforce the law.

Public art is a form of free expression but our enemies in conjunction with “our” elected officials no longer support the letter or spirit of liberty. First Amendment “free expression” and Fifth Amendment “due process” and equal protection of the law belongs only to those who support the neo-Marxist, politically correct version of history. Unfortunately, worse is yet to come. The radical left will not stop with the mere destruction of a few Confederate monuments. The attack on free expression will continue until it becomes illegal to display a Confederate flag on private property within sight of an interstate highway. Those pacified Southerners who think this will never happen are the same ones who swore that monuments to Lee, Beauregard, and Davis would “never be removed.” Our enemy never rests. They don’t defend, they attack! They don’t rely on truth and justice, they rely on force and intimidation to compel elected Southern officials to do their dirty work. For those who think banning CSA flags on private property will never happen in the “good ole U.S.A.” I remind you that in 1965 the Federal Congress passed a law that allowed the Feds to ban “eye-sores” within sight of interstate highways. It will be a simple matter to amend the act to include “hate symbols.” This is why the Kennedy Twins have been insisting since 1991 that Southerners become politically proactive as most recently described in Dixie Rising-Rules for Rebels.

The Tragedy of Old Guard Thinking in Times of Crises

The Old Guard heroically earned its battle scars in the last war but the next war most likely will not be fought the same way as the last war. Relying on the “wisdom” of the Old Guard has often led to disaster. The Old Guard in France of the 1930s refused to listen to a radical young officer, Charles de Gaulle, because they knew that a well-constructed trench line (the Maginot Line) would stop the next German invasion; during World War I the French and English Old Guard refused to adapt their pre-1900 tactics and insisted upon sending wave after wave of young men shoulder to shoulder against machine guns. Old Guard thinking—once it is in place—is almost impossible to overcome.

When the Kennedy Twins suggest that we change our tactics from Heritage defense to an offense, Old Guard thinking begins to stir! The Old Guard protest, “We can’t abandon defending our monuments!” Well as we point out in Dixie Rising—Rules for Rebels our enemy has more resources than we do, we cannot match them dollar for dollar. We must change the social and political environment and make it politically too costly for elected Southern politicians to cave in to neo-Marxist demands to remove our Confederate monuments, etc. If we do our job correctly we will not need to defend our heritage because Southern politicians will be afraid to attack our Southern heritage!
